

ABSTRACT

- 5 The invention provides a simplified method for simultaneous sequence-specific identification of multiple mRNA molecules in a mRNA population that eliminates the necessity of making a library in a vector. The invention also provides compositions and data processing systems suitable for the practice of the invention.